

Welcome

Your transition into ANSTO is as important to us as it is to you.

To support your onboarding, our Learning and Development Team proudly delivers the ANSTO Induction Workshop on a fortnightly basis. All new employees will attend this two day program during their first or second week. Participation in the workshop also forms the foundation for many of the mandatory learning modules you will complete once you have commenced with us.

As one of your first face to face learning experiences, the ANSTO Induction provides an essential overview of our organisation, along with an introduction to our safety, regulatory and legislative responsibilities.

Day 1 – Getting to know ANSTO

Day one focuses on helping you build a strong understanding of ANSTO as a complex and multi faceted organisation. You will hear from one of our Group Executives, who will introduce:

OUR Vision

OUR Mission

OUR Strategic Objectives

We also recognise that not everyone joining ANSTO has prior experience in the nuclear industry, so one of our subject matter experts will provide an introductory session on nuclear science and nuclear assurance.

The day concludes with a site tour of either Lucas Heights (Sydney) or Clayton (Melbourne).

Day 2 – Mandatory knowledge

Day two focuses on the key requirements you need to know as an ANSTO employee. This includes important topics such as:

Security

Physical safety

Psychosocial safety

Quality management

Environmental management

These sessions are delivered by ANSTO subject matter experts to ensure you receive accurate and practical guidance.

There is nothing you need to prepare in advance – our team will take care of all induction arrangements for you. For now, simply look forward to this valuable learning experience.

We look forward to welcoming you soon.

The ANSTO Induction provides an essential overview of our organisation, along with an introduction to our safety, regulatory and legislative responsibilities.

