UPDATE: Pentastan Kit Product Information

Yesterday, a customer brought to our attention the labelling on our Pentastan Kit and its product information (PI) is out of date. This is because we've updated our manufacturer and the labelling has not yet been refreshed.

We're working on having the label updated as soon as possible – this should be complete by next Friday 5 June. In the meantime, here's a quick summary for you:

- There is no change to the way you use this product, please follow instructions outlined in the prescribing information
- The DTPA in the kit is stored under nitrogen rather than vacuum
- The updated PI is available via our website

We apologise for any inconvenience this has caused. Please reach out if you have any questions via the contact details below.
